July 2020

VOLUME 10, ISSUE 7

PRESIDENT'S LETTER—July

Well, quilters, here we are again. All nestled into our comfy homes and staying out of the heat. OK, not by choice, but here we are.

I must say I truly miss you all, my wonderful quilting friends, and look forward to the day when we can all meet, again, in person.

For now, there is plenty of good news and new things happening to continue to get us through this time of self-quarantine.

So Excited

First, and most importantly, we will have our first General Meeting, on ZOOM, on its regularly scheduled time and day - Tuesday, July 14th at 10am. We will have a very special guest -Johanna Fox of StitchCraft who will be filling us in on the latest Trends and Tools.

We are working out the final details and will be getting them to you shortly if you don't already have them. Stay tuned.

In addition, The Internet is ALIVE with things to see and do. The Quilt Show with Alex Anderson has live video (and past videos) from Alex. Mancuso just did a virtual trade show over the weekend and is doing another in August. We will be alerting you as soon as we know the exact date. You can sign up for virtual classes. Check out SAQA.com for more videos. As part of this newsletter we are giving you a list of websites and podcasts for you to check out.

I want to send a special thank you to our Technology chair, Ann Ford, for making this possible. Back in March most of us had never even heard of Zoom. Now we are putting together a general membership meeting with it. Woohoo. Remember this first meeting will be a trial and error test and we all have our fingers crossed. But I am confident that it will work just fine and give you all a chance to see your friends.

Until then, continue to stay safe and make sure you always wear one of those masks you are making.

Rochelle Staiano
President

Mother Nature Rules the Roost

Dear Friends,

With the COVID-19 pandemic on the upswing here in the United States, we once again find it prudent to follow our instincts with regards to everyone's health and well-being. We are officially cancelling / postponing the following onsite quilt festivals: the *Pennsylvania National Quilt Extravaganza (mid-September), which will return in 2021 to the Greater Philadelphia Expo Center, Oaks, PA, and the Pacific International Quilt Festival (mid-October) that will return to the Santa Clara Convention Center, Santa Clara, CA in 2021.

However, Mancuso Show Management will be moving ahead with two more online quilt festivals (OLQF) in 2020.

· World Quilt New England and the Pennsylvania National Quilt Extravaganza will be combined into our second OLQF to be held virtually August 12-15, 2020.

· Our Pacific International Quilt Festival will be presented as our third OLQF and will be held virtually October 14-17, 2020.

Our company has just completed our first OLQF to a very enthusiastic response. Quilters loved this format! So, we are ready to take this virtual experience up to the next level. Both virtual events will be held Wednesday through Saturday to allow an additional day to meet the high-demand for online workshops and lectures. This platform is also going to be offering sponsored prize money quilt competitions, special exhibitions, very special demonstrations, fun activities, and, of course, the always popular Merchants' Malls. Stay tuned!

*Please be patient, we will be processing any credits or refunds due over the next 3 weeks.

Best regards,

Modern Quilts Take on Small Piecing

By: Katie Chicarello

Small piecing has become a big trend—and modern quilts are a great testament to that. Amy Friend explores this topic—and the quilters behind it in 2019 issue of QuiltCon Magazine. Read on for Amy's thoughts on this modern quilt trend.

Small piecing is gaining momentum in the modern quilting world.

Not a day goes by that you don't see an example of this trend pop up in your Instagram feed. When some go big, others go small. And these small piecers are making a big impact.

Of course, small piecing isn't new; quilters have always used small bits in their quilts. When the MQG was founded in 2009, it wasn't a significant trend. Those quilters identifying themselves as modern tended to use larger scale piecing. This could have been for a number of reasons, from the influence of the mid-century modern aesthetic with large areas of color, to the ease of piecing larger chunks of fabric by new quilters.

Modern Quilts Take on Small Piecing (Cont'd)

The movement begins

As I attempted to narrow down just when the small piecing trend began, I realized that Chawne Kimber first introduced it to me. This is not to say that Chawne 'invented' modern small piecing, but she brought it visibility by exhibiting her work and teaching the technique at QuiltCon 2017. As the trend continued the following year, there was a marked increase in 2018's winning quilts that incorporated small piecing.

Among them was Stephanie Skardal's Best of Show winner, "Going Up." This year, the QuiltCon Charity Committee chose small piecing as the theme for the 2019 challenge. Clearly, small piecing is having a moment in modern quilting. Chawne Kimber admits she likes the technical challenges and the thrill of creating hand-pieced patchwork pieces that are just two to three threads wide. Hand piecing improvisationally.

Modern Quilts Take on Small Piecing (Cont'd)

can be a far more difficult undertaking because each design decision is weighed a little more heavily as they can result in extensive changes in construction and, therefore, labor. Her work often includes traditional blocks, usually in solids with an occasional print, frequently joined with some type of alternate gridwork, traditional blocks, usually in solids with an occasional print, frequently joined with some type of alternate gridwork.

The Raspberry Kiss block by Kitty Wilkin will finish at 1¼" square. She enjoys photographing blocks with color-coordinating items to help with scale

Spreading the love of working small

Chawne's small piecing has been credited with inspiring a number of top modern quilters.

Kitty Wilkin was introduced to small piecing at the Maine Slow Stitching retreat in 2015, where she met Chawne. Seeing her tiny piecing in person inspired Kitty to dive in, and she hasn't looked back. She is enjoying the challenge of "making smaller" and will be sharing her project with students at QuiltCon 2019.

These 1" pinwheels are part of a tiny piecing sampler that Lynn Carson Harris uses for teaching Kitty also credits Lynn Carson Harris for inspiration. Lynn has always been attracted to quilts with small pieces, especially antique quilts. Her love of small things reaches back to when she enjoyed making miniatures for a dollhouse as a preteen/teen. Inspiration found in antique quilts is apparent in her work where she tends to sew recognizable, traditional blocks. She uses both precision piecing and liberated or intuitive piecing, or a combination, to arrive at the desired look. Lynn chooses to work with small pieces because small-scale blocks are simply cuter! She is also thrifty and hates to throw small fabric bits away. She says she is on a mission to scale down as many traditional blocks as she can.

A quick scroll through Instagram will reveal many quilters, who are inspired by some of the small piecers mentioned here, playing with small blocks as technical challenges. This is the first step in acquiring a new skill. I imagine that eventually, we will see many of these quilters learning to join these blocks together into compositions. I'm looking forward to seeing this trend play out!

Technical Tips for Small Piecing

Pressing matters: "I am a press-aholic. ... Press every seam individually and press the seam you just stitched, and then repress all of the previous seams. This will make a huge difference when working with tiny piecing."—Maria Shell

Be precise: "Paper piece or measure carefully. This isn't complicated work. By pretending otherwise one can scare folks off of trying."—Chawne Kimber

Start fresh: "Use a new sewing machine needle, a thin thread, and a single stitch throat place. Quality materials also give better results."—Lynn Carson Harris

Slow down: "I'm meticulous! Foundation paper piecing helps, since I'm sewing over lines, but being slow and careful while cutting and piecing also help with precision." —Kitty Wilkin

Chawne Kimber's 12" square block uses 1/8" 'logs'

Amy Friend is a designer from New England specializing in modern-paper piecing designs. She is the author of Intentional Piecing and Improv Paper Piecing, and recently designed By Hand, her current fabric collection. Amy travels to lecture and teach workshops.
